Soaring heat indexes of 100 degrees didn't keep hundreds of spectators from lining the streets of downtown Anadarko for the traditional American Indian Exposition (AIE) opening parade Aug. 5.

Children, armed with bags to catch the candy and trinkets thrown to them, excitedly bounced on one foot, then the other, willing the floats towards them.

The parade signified the beginning of five days of celebrating Native American culture, dances and traditions, along with the anticipated fair at the Caddo County Fairgrounds.

For five-year-old Athena Spradling, there are two favorites, "the best part is the candy home with buckets full of candy, trinkets and the fair would last for several hours. I think a lot of funding for the expo must have gone down over the years because it really went downhill for awhile, but last year it picked back up and looks like this year will be even better."

Aubrey Spradling and her friend Kelly Vandeventer took it upon themselves to hand out cold bottles of water throughout the parade.

According to Wikipedia, the expo began in 1931, and is one of the oldest and largest intertribal gatherings in Oklahoma.

It is sponsored by 13 Oklahoma tribes, Apache, Arapaho, Caddo, Cheyenne, Comanche, Delaware, Ft. Sill Apache, Iowa, Kiowa, Osage, Otoe-Missouria, Ponca, and Wichita, with representatives from up to 50 other tribes participating in any given year.

The exposition was first held as an "All

Caregivers reach out to veterans

By Shaida Tabrizi
Reporter

On Monday, July 27, 2015 the Oklahoma City Veterans Affairs Medical Center hosted a summit meeting with state and local agencies that specialize in mental health services for veterans of U.S. Armed Services.

Professionals within the veteran-care field met together at the Rosser Conservation and Education Building at the Oklahoma City Zoo to exchange ideas and learn new strides within VA, from the Veteran Access Choice and Accountability Act (VACA), to providing for veteran families, with particular attention to mental health.

Their statement of purpose read as follows: "To bring together key stakeholders within and external to the OKC VA Health Care System catchment area in an effort to satisfy the goal of enhancing access to mental health services for veterans and their family members they throw to us and I get to go on rides."

Athena's mother, Aubrey Spradling said she was born and raised in Anadarko and can remember years past where the streets would be so packed with spectators, "you couldn't find a spot for your chair," she said. "We would go

Prevention Day preserves future generations

By Shaida Tabrizi, Reporter

Confidence is catching. Just ask the forty or so kids who bounced their way through the Youth Prevention Day hosted by C&A tribes’ Social Services Department on Aug. 5, 2015 in Clinton, Okla.

Bussed in from around the tribal community, youths aged eight to 17 were greeted by a huge inflatable obstacle course, giveaways like shirts with the logo ‘Preserving Future Generations’, interactive speeches and confidence building exercises.

“We felt like there was a need to get out in communities before school started so the kids would understand the importance of staying drug and alcohol free,” Executive Director of Social Services Nikki Factor-Navaro said. “We were thinking of fun things but also wanting to build their self-esteem. Something like this, it accomplishes something small, that they can do something big in the future.”

Each program in the department of social services took part in the prevention day, which was new for them said Factor-Navaro.

“My whole plan was having my staff be all involved because it’s important for them to understand other communities, where the need is,” Factor-Navaro said. “And actually getting out in the community and realizing the importance of these kids is important. It’s giving them a different perspective on things.”

C&A’s education department joined the effort to keep kids drug and alcohol free as well. The R.E.Sp.E.C.T. program took care of transportation for everyone, and Acting Executive Director of Education Gordon Yellowman spoke on the importance of making good decisions.

“Remember you are loved. Always be very careful in your choices,” Yellowman said. “I challenge you to make the right choice and advocate prevention.”

Following Yellowman, Social Services Executive Director Assistant Christopher Sindone took things to a personal level as he shared his negative experiences with drugs and alcohol. After making an impact with the dangers, Sindone ended on a positive note as he explained how he turned his life around and encouraged kids to make good goals.

“Education is the way to go. School may not be cool to you right now, but the coolest thing you can do is go to college,” Sindone said. “Stay focused. Make your people proud. All of you are the future leaders.”

After the speeches, the kids ran through the inflatable obstacle course, racing and filling the community center with shrieks of fun. Then after settling down with lunch, they were broken up into small groups to build self-esteem through discussing values, peer pressure and consequences.

“I felt like it was going to be a normal day, because we were going to be on this thing all day,” 12 year-old Levi Pedro said, gesturing at the obstacle course. “But they did more and I thought it was good, a good speech. All in all fun and good.”

There will be more prevention events throughout the school year as well.

“We are planning on doing quarterly events,

Kids throughout the tribal area participated in Social Services’ Prevention Day which aimed to preserve future generations by teaching abstinence from drugs and alcohol.

Below: Nine year-old Cecilia Alexander made her first climb through the inflatable obstacle course geared to build confidence at Social Services’ Prevention Day, saying it was easier to get through than she anticipated. (Photos by Shaida Tabrizi) this is a pilot project to see if it’s going to be effective and ways we can improve,” Factor-Navaro said. “We’re going to talk about prevention of drug and alcohol with the older kids, making good choices, and with the younger kids, building self-esteem, how important they are to the tribe, they’re such an valued asset to the tribe.”

Cancer Awareness Powwow and Health Fair coming soon

(CONCHO-OK) By looking at cancer facts, cancer is on the rise in Oklahoma.

According to the Oklahoma State Health Department’s “2014 State of the State’s Health,” between 1999 and 2010, the cancer incidence rate increased by 2.5 percent in Oklahoma while it declined by 4.4 percent in the U.S. There are about 20,000 diagnoses of cancer in Oklahoma each year. While most cancer diagnoses are from prostate and breast cancer, the rate of death from cancer is the highest from lung and bronchus cancer.

The Health Education Program is committed to getting out in the community with cancer awareness. Many are obese. Some abuse alcohol. The American Cancer Society website states that obesity increases the risk for cancers of the breast, colon and rectum, endometrium, esophagus, kidney and pancreas.

The American Cancer Society website also states that chronic alcohol use increases the risk for cancers of the mouth, pharynx, larynx, esophagus, liver, colon, rectum and breast. Once the risk factors for cancer are known and awareness is brought about, then prevention can be done.

The Health Education Program would like to get in contact with cancer survivors or those families affected by cancer. We are seeking participants for this event since we will be honoring victims/families of victims who have been affected by this disease.

Beacham's parents, Chris and Karisa Kelley, are both veterans of the U.S. Army so the family is used to traveling.

"We're a military family. So, just moving around is the norm. Every two or three years, that's just what we know," Mrs. Kelley said. "We've traveled to numerous places so I feel good that he knows how to handle himself, how to maneuver around and ask questions. He always speaks up, he always is willing to meet new people, and he's always been motivated and driven. I think he's going to do very well."

Beacham was selected as a foreign exchange student through the American Scandinavian Student Exchange (ASSE) Congress-Bundestag Youth Exchange Program. It's a ten-month immersion program that emphasizes learning about each country's political life, culture and language.

"By the time I get back, hopefully I'll be mostly fluent," Beacham said. "What I'm looking forward to most is traveling.

Many of their trips have taken them to S. America, where Beacham has improved his Spanish skills. The military influence is present as well in Beacham's goals to travel, through his longtime desire to join the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

"It's a great experience, and I think going over there will just really teach me a lot. I wanted to learn about a new culture, see a different part of the world," Beacham said, commenting as well

ATHLETE'S SPOTLIGHT

Interview by Rosemary Stephens
Photos submitted

Seventeen year old Darryl Calloway is a 5'11 senior who attends Shamrock High School in Shamrock, Texas.

He is active in football, basketball and track, but of all three sports, football is where he hopes his dreams will take him in the professional arena. Darryl is a quarterback and free safety on his high school varsity football team.

He is the son of Tiffany Calloway and Robbie Holmes, grandson of Bobby Holmes and has six siblings.

When did you first begin playing?
Third grade

What is it about the sport that you love the best?
I love competing and hitting someone.

What has been your biggest accomplishment in the sport so far?
Biggest accomplishment so far is getting all state my sophomore year.

Together Everyone Achieves More

What is your GPA?
3.5 GPA.

What is your biggest accomplishment in the classroom so far?
Getting nominated to the National Honors Society.

What are some of your goals, (sports, life, school)?
Goals in sports is to make it to the pros. Graduate college, have a family. Goal in high school is to be a leader on and off the field ... and to beat our rival the Wheeler Mustangs.

What actions are you taking to reach these goals?
Work out on a daily basis, do anything it takes to make it to the pros.

What has been the most exciting game you have played in?
Sophomore year against the Wheeler Mustangs that's our rival and we never won against them until that year and beat them by a touchdown.

What is the best advice you have ever been given and who gave you that advice?
My coach, Jody Guy, told me to just work out real hard and be the better person. Be an example.

Do you have a saying or motto that you live your life by?
Live life like it's your last and don't have regrets.

Who or what inspires you the most?
My dad because of all the stuff he does for us and he is there for us in any way. He is a good person and just inspires me. He has never quit on us.

What work out routine do you have for training in your sport?
We lift weights in the morning, run and in the evenings. Weightlifting room 2-5 hours, 4 days a week.

What are one or two things in your training, that you feel are keys to you being successful in your sport?
Staying healthy, staying in shape, eating healthy. That's a given no alcohol and drugs.

What is your favorite meal before or after a game?
Before the game chicken fried steak, after the game is spaghetti.

Who has had the biggest impact on your life?
My family.

What are some of your hobbies (what do you like to do when not playing sports)?
I hang out with friends, play video games, work out.

What kinds of music do you enjoy listening to?
I listen to everything.

What is one thing about you that no one else knows?
That I am a very humble guy.

If you could change one thing in the world, what would it be?
End hunger.

What do you someday dream of doing?
Playing pro football.

Who is your favorite athlete of all time?
Cam Newton – football quarterback and Adrian Peterson.

Which team is your favorite team?
Dallas Cowboys

What would be your advice to younger kids coming up behind you?
Keep pushing it because it will pay off someday.

Oklahoma City VA Medical Center outreach to Native Americans

Native American Nurse Navigator

(Oklahoma City) The Oklahoma City VA Medical Center is reaching out to Native American veterans in several ways. The VA wants all veterans to know what services are available to them. In order to meet this goal, a new position has been created, the position of Native American Nurse Navigator.
“I am honored to have been chosen for this position. My name is Candy Fish Klumpp. I am a Muscogee Creek citizen.
Call me if you are a veteran (or a family member of a veteran) and you are interested in enrolling for health care benefits, or if you have questions about available health benefits or you would like to know more about how the Oklahoma City VA Medical Center is working with Indian Health Services to better serve Native American veterans.”

Klump said she can address health issues, problems understanding the VA system and can provide any referrals for other services a Veteran may need.

An unforgettable walk

Chauncina Scala (Sutton) from Canton, Okla., currently lives in Westchester County, NY.
This is her story of an unforgettable walk down the block ... going to show you just never know who will cross your path.
On Aug. 7 around 5:30 p.m. I decided to walk with my son to a local RiteAid store to pick up a few items on my way home. I happen to notice this man walking his dogs. As he got closer, I glanced at the man, and when I did, I couldn't believe my eyes. It was former President Bill Clinton! I waved at him, he waved back, and we smiled at each other. So out of nowhere I asked if we (my son: Dominick & I) could get a picture with him because I didn't have a pen and paper for an autograph. I was so shocked, I was speechless! We shook hands, then he asked what my son's name is, and the next thing you know we're taking a selfie. That's a walk home from the store I'll never forget. It made my entire day/week! I called my father Allen Sutton Sr. He convinced me to share my story because this type of thing doesn't happen everyday. I was very happy and exited that I got a chance to meet Bill Clinton.

DIABETES

Chronic Disease

What do sitting, smoking and obesity have in common? All are risk factors for chronic disease.

Researchers have been investigating ways to reduce our risk of chronic disease for decades. One big question, how much exercise is needed to prevent disease? The answer is at least 150 minutes per week.

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (DHS) physical activity guidelines, adults should participate in at least 150 minutes of moderate-intensity aerobic physical activity per week, including at least two days of muscle-strengthening activities. While exercising up to 300 minutes per week has even greater health benefits.

This guideline was developed with the assumption that we are doing light physical activity throughout the day including walking and standing. However, many adults are mostly sedentary during the day. Many of us sit all day at our jobs and technology has replaced our need to do physical work.

Research shows that individuals who sit all day, even if they go to the gym for an hour, are at greater disease risk than those who are more active during the day. “Informal” physical activity such as walking to a coworker’s desk, around the mall or through the parking lot can add up to a lot of minutes throughout the day and is beneficial to overall health.

What is physical inactivity?

Physical inactivity is anytime you are not standing or moving. Sitting at your desk, watching TV or being in your car for a long commute all fall into this category. Our health is impaired by how many hours we spend each day sitting, as well as the duration of those stints of inactivity.

Even those who exercise for 150 minutes each week aren’t safe from the dangers of sitting for too long.

What are the risks?

Many parameters to assess disease risk include blood sugar, insulin, HDL (the good cholesterol), waist circumference, triglycerides, weight and blood pressure. Researchers have also studied the relationship between sitting and indicators of inflammation, which is common in people with heart disease. Studies have even investigated inactivity and risk of premature death. All of these outcomes can be negatively impacted by physical inactivity: The more you sit, the greater your risk for disease and early death.

How can we reduce physical inactivity at home and at work?

While there is no published recommendation for “safe” sitting time yet, a good rule of thumb is to move for at least one to two minutes each hour in addition to 150 minutes of moderate physical activity each week. If your job is sedentary, you can break up that time with bits of activity to improve your health. Here are a few tips to get moving throughout the day:

- Use a pedometer to track daily steps and aim for a goal such as 10,000 steps per day.
- Park far away from your building or use public transportation.
- Use a standing or walking desk.
- Have walking meetings, instead of sitting in the conference room.
- Take a brisk walk after lunch.
- Rather than send an email, walk to your co-worker.
- Stand during phone calls.
- Drink enough water that you use the restroom often.
- Play pool, go for a walk or play lawn games instead of watching TV.

Peaches & Cream Oatmeal

1/2 cup Old Fashioned Rolled Oats or Quick Oats*

1/2 cup milk

1/2 cup water

1 Tbsp packed light brown sugar or granulated sugar

1/8 tsp cinnamon (optional)

1 dash salt

1/4 tsp vanilla

1/2 cup diced canned, drained peaches or fresh peaches*

2 Tbsp cream or half-n-half

In a large microwave safe bowl, combine oats, milk, water, sugar, optional cinnamon and salt. If using fresh peaches add them to oatmeal mixture before microwaving so they will cook and become softened. Microwave mixture on HIGH power for 3 1/2 - 4 minutes. Remove from microwave and stir in vanilla. If using canned peaches fold them into oatmeal after microwaving. Drizzle oatmeal with cream. Serve warm.

Happy 8th birthday Illiana Carlson! Reach for the stars Luvbug! We love you so much!
Love, mom, dad & sissy!

Happy 3rd Birthday, Sugar!
August 15
We love you!

I want to send my love and respects to my distant brother Noah Ellis. Happy 32 Birthday on August 2. May your braids grow thick and strong from the root on like that. And your hooves don't chip on the banks of the Canadian... (Wee-cha). Nah but on the real cousin, I hope that you see that your journey in life is all how you travel and take in what you see as you pass through. And always know you have pure amor and respectos from the Herrera Familia. Also know that with age comes wisdom and wisdom is power. Stay strong and healthy. Amor y Respectos, Doh From The "O"

To my three sons, Ryan, Zachary and Kial, I Love You Always and Forever, mom Myra

My Child, I Don't Ever Want You To Forget How Much I Love You Sometimes parents don't make their feelings clear; they assume that their children know of the deep love they feel for them. Yet when misunderstandings occur, and things are left unsaid, it can lead to needless doubts and insecurities.

I don't ever want you to feel insecure, and I want you to remember these words I am telling you now, because they will always be current and never changing.... You are the greatest thing that ever happened to me. There is nothing I'd rather see than your smile, and nothing I'd rather hear than your laughter.

I am proud of the person you have become. And no matter what happens in your life, I have confidence in your ability to make the right choices. I Love You.

--Barbara Cage--

Happy Birthday to Stephanie, a wonderful mom and a beautiful wife! Love, Michelle, Kynadee, Lauren, Ryan, Kyle, Caleb Dylan & Eddie

You truly understand me, More than anyone else, You know where I've been And where I'm hoping to go. And, time after time, your unwavering patience, honesty, and support have anchored me and help me realize what's right for me. You're the perfect combination of sweet sister and forever friend And I'll always be grateful to have you in my life & by my side. God made us sisters Love made us friends. -Ter-ray Happy Birthday Tracy Jo WhiteBuffalo Aug 21, 1973 42 years young Jaden "Punkin" Blackowl (Yellow Heaven "Nako-Ni-hoo'yoo") enrolled Cheyenne & Arapaho tribal member, seven months old, won second place in his age division of the American Indian Exposition Beautiful Baby Contest. He is the son of Bridget Nebi Blackowl, grandson of Denise Karty and great-grandson of Jeannie Webster Karty. Punkin's outfit was made by family friend Melanie Youngbear.

Happy Birthday Dad Thomas "TM" Fasthorse Love Blaine, Brandy, Baylee, and Tori

To my brother William Littleman August 14, 2014 was a sad day for me, you left me brother. I remember when I went to visit you, I didn't know that was the day the Lord was going to take you home. Everyday I miss you, but I remember when I left you you told me, "Sister, I love you" and I told you, "I love you brother." Those words comfort me each day. I miss you but one day we will see each other. Your sis, Nellie Littleman on his lack of any German language skills. "Just getting out there and putting yourself on the line is what you have to do to get to where you want to go." His family calls Puyallup, Wash. their home base now, but still have ties to Oklahoma. Beacham's grandparents, Patricia and Wesley Waysepappy live in Lawton, Okla. and are active in the C&A cultural activities. They showed their support for Beacham's trip by organizing a cedar ceremony to wish him well on his journey, according to Mrs. Waysepappy. "We're excited too to see him branch out and get out of the U.S. you know, get out of Oklahoma," Mr. Waysepappy said. "It's great to see." The difficulties of packing for nearly a yearlong trip were solved by the program's advice to pack only a week's worth of clothing. However, the preparations aren't making anyone in the Beacham family too nervous. "They've wanted me to do this the whole time. They've done so much preparation for me, so I definitely feel a lot of support behind me going," Beacham said about his family. "I don't know if I'm nervous. It's just been such a long buildup that I'm just ready to be there and start."

Must perform as an exhibition dance at the 2015 Cheese & Wine Festival in order to be registered. Registration numbers will be assigned at Exhibition Dance. About the Children's Cancer Camp: The Gathering of Cultures is beneficial to the dancers and observers as well as the cause. The annual Children's Cancer Camp is a weekend away from hospitals for children fighting life-threatening conditions. The Camp offers the children and their families a weekend of fun activities, including fishing, boating and storytelling. The volunteers of Watonga work hard to help these families and the dance will help offset the cost of the activities. Join the dance, join the fun and join the cause. Gathering of Cultures: Watonga is a diverse community with many moving parts. One of our biggest and most valuable qualities is our volunteerism and service towards one another. We are inviting you to be a part of an experience, a change, within our community. There will be dance, food, laughter and most of all selfless service. You will see beautifully detailed regalia, intricate beading and spectacular dancing. The Native peoples of various regions of Oklahoma will work together to help out a very special cause, the Children's Cancer Camp.
